Brief Report on the Outcome of activity	Hon. Dr. S. B. Bothara delivered an insightful guest lecture on the topic 'Emerging Trends in Pharmacy Research'. During the lecture, he discussed the changing role of pharmacy in modern healthcare and emphasized the importance of interdisciplinary research in pharmaceutical sciences. He highlighted recent advancements in drug discovery and development, including the growing use of computational drug design, bioinformatics, and artificial intelligence. Dr. Bothara explained the significance of nanotechnology in targeted drug delivery systems and discussed emerging areas such as biopharmaceuticals, biosimilars, and pharmaceutical biotechnology. He also stressed the importance of Quality by Design (QbD), regulatory knowledge, clinical research, and pharmacovigilance in ensuring safe and effective medicines. Ethical aspects of pharmacy research were briefly addressed. The lecture encouraged students to adopt a research-oriented approach, stay updated with new technologies, and explore career opportunities in academia, industry, and clinical research. Dr. Bothara shared his valuable experiences from research and industry, which helped students understand real-world challenges. He advised students to focus on innovation, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills. The interactive session allowed students to clarify their doubts and gain practical insights. The lecture was attended by M. Pharm and B. Pharm students, who actively participated throughout the session. Overall, the lecture broadened students' perspectives on future research opportunities and was highly informative, motivating, and beneficial for all attendees.

Brief Report on the Outcome of activity	The session on "Customer Awareness Programme for Phishing and Other Cyber Issues" by Hon. Mr. Mahesh S. Sonawane was an insightful and highly relevant awareness initiative aimed at strengthening digital safety among students and staff. Mr. Sonawane, a knowledgeable expert in cybercrime prevention, began by explaining the rising incidents of online fraud, phishing attacks, data theft, and digital impersonation in today's technology-driven world. He highlighted how cybercriminals use deceptive emails, fake links, and fraudulent calls to obtain personal and financial information. The speaker emphasized the importance of identifying suspicious messages, verifying the authenticity of websites, and avoiding sharing sensitive details with unknown sources. He also discussed common cyber traps such as OTP scams, UPI frauds, social-engineering tactics, and misuse of social media. Practical demonstrations and real-life examples helped participants understand the seriousness of these threats. Furthermore, Mr. Sonawane guided the audience on safe digital practices, secure password creation, two-factor authentication, and responsible online behaviour. He stressed the importance of promptly reporting cyber incidents to authorities and using official grievance portals. The session concluded with an interactive Q&A, empowering participants to protect themselves and others in the evolving digital environment. The programme left participants more alert and aware of digital risks. It also encouraged them to adopt preventive measures in their daily online activities. Overall, the session was highly informative, impactful, and essential for today's cyber-aware generation.

In charge	Mr. D. M. Patil, Mr. N. B. Patil, Ms. S. V. Patil.
Brief Report on the Outcome of activity	The guest lecture on "Values of Failure" delivered by Mr. Mohandas K. Bhamare offered students a fresh and meaningful perspective on the importance of setbacks in life. Mr. Bhamare began by explaining that failure is not something to be feared, but an experience that helps individuals grow stronger and wiser. He emphasized that failure is not the opposite of success; instead, it is an essential part of the journey towards achieving it. Students learned that every setback carries a valuable lesson that contributes to personal improvement and character building. The speaker highlighted how facing failures develops patience, confidence, and better decision-making skills. Using simple and relatable examples, he showed that even highly successful people have encountered many failures before attaining their goals. The lecture encouraged students to look at failure as a learning opportunity rather than a defeat. It motivated them to reflect on their mistakes, make necessary changes, and move ahead with renewed determination. Mr. Bhamare also stressed the importance of maintaining a positive mindset while dealing with challenges. Students appreciated the practical tips offered for handling stress, overcoming fear, and embracing new opportunities. The interactive session helped them connect the concepts with their own experiences. By the end of the lecture, students understood that failure builds resilience, creativity, and adaptability. The session helped them develop a healthier outlook toward difficulties and setbacks. Overall, the lecture successfully conveyed that failures act as stepping stones toward success, self-growth, and long-term achievement.

Brief Report on the Outcome of activity	The activity focused on promoting mental well-being in the age of constant digital engagement. It began with a discussion on the psychological effects of excessive screen time. Participants were introduced to the concept of mindfulness and meditation. Simple breathing exercises and guided meditation were practiced during the session. Emphasis was placed on how regular meditation improves focus and reduces anxiety. The importance of digital detox and setting screen-time boundaries was highlighted. Participants reflected on their daily technology habits and shared personal experiences. Tips for incorporating short mindfulness breaks into busy schedules were shared. The session encouraged a shift from reactive to mindful digital usage. It promoted self-awareness in balancing productivity with personal peace. Positive feedback reflected participants' interest in adopting mindful tech habits. Overall, the activity successfully reinforced the value of inner calm in a digital world. It also addressed the challenge of tech dependency in youth and working professionals. Group discussions helped participants connect and relate with one another's experiences. The facilitator stressed on building daily meditation habits even for 5-10 minutes. Educational materials and resources were shared for continued personal practice. The event concluded with a collective reflection and a commitment to balanced tech use.
